Bard Journal of Social Research

Thought Images, Fragments, & Aphorisms

Ryan Howe & R.J. Skypala
ST. MARX PLACE

Paul Stephens
BLACKBERRYBILD

Saralee Gallien
ADDERALLABOR
(Work on Progress)

Alana Buonaguro
YOGALATTES

Zoltán Glück
BOREDOM & VIOLENCE

Essays

Ariana Jostad-Laswell
“IF YOU COME FROM A BAD NEIGHBORHOOD THEY MAKE SURE YOU NEVER MAKE IT”
Children in the Ghetto to Prison Pipeline

Alexander Morrison
“RETURN TO THYSELF”
Towards a Psychology of Bildungsroman

Michael Gregory
SOCIAL SHAPES IN CINEMATIC SPACE
The Architectural Cinema of Rossellini

Christine Nielsen
MI-CARÊME
A History of Recreating Ritual

Christopher Herring
“ON THE BRINK OF CHAnge”
Ghetto Gentrification and Chicago’s Robert Taylor Homes

Sam Cate-Gumpert
COMMUNITY AS DISCOURSE
Public(s) at the Burning Man Arts Festival
Aims & Scope:
The Bard Journal of Social Research sees itself in the tradition of institutes and journals ‘for Social Research’. From the Frankfurt School to the New School, this tradition has historically, and consistently, engaged with the traditional disciplines of the Social Sciences while also taking a critical distance from those divisions. This amicable but problematic relationship to the Social Sciences is at the heart of what drives The Bard Journal of Social Research. This is expressed in the pages of the journal—wherein you may find a range of diverse forms writing, from classic historical studies, ethnographies, and quantitative sociological analysis next to aphorisms, denkbilder (thought-image fragments), interdisciplinary studies and theoretically sophisticated literary deconstructions which bring to bear on our very conception of the social.

Editorial Policy:
The Bard Journal is a non-partisan forum. Submissions will be judged solely on the basis of their quality and contribution to the public discourse. The selection process for articles is blind. The views expressed herein are not necessarily those of the Editors, Staff, Academic Advisers, Friends, or Benefactors. All materials appearing in the Bard Journal of Social Research may be used only with permission of the authors. Copyright 2008 Bard Journal of Social Research. All rights reserved.

SUBMISSIONS should be sent via e-mail. File format must be indicated clearly. Additionally, the editors occasionally invite outside readers to serve as AD HOC REVIEWERS of submissions. Please contact us at the address below, with any further inquiries.

Address submissions and inquiries to: bardjournal@gmail.com